Senior Frontend Infrastructure Engineer

Tel Aviv

We are:

Wix's Frontend Infra group. We create development tools and best practices for over 700 Frontend Developers at Wix (and counting), focusing on strategic needs and emphasizing dev velocity and reliability through innovation and research of cutting edge technologies. We work in small teams, follow agile methodologies and use continuous delivery methodologies to run quickly while maintaining the high quality of our products.

We are constantly looking to learn and improve our professionalism. Among our most important values are visibility and communication. For example, we write design reviews for new features, explain our changes in every PR, add RFCs for big features, and mentor other developers that contribute to our projects. We also present new features in meetups, so being able to speak in front of other developers is an integral part of the job.

Some of our group's products are:

- Wix's Micro-Frontends infrastructure.
- Wix's in-house E2E testing infrastructure.
- Auto analyzing developers' code to enforce standards and performance.
- A Galaxy of Stoolkits to develop the best applications at Wix.
- Tooling for measurement and monitoring of performance and success

You are:

An exceptional and highly motivated Software Engineer with excellent communication skills, and a keen interest in infrastructure. You're an independent problem solver who's not afraid of diving into multiple internal and external code bases (such as Jest, Webpack, etc.) to solve problems and deliver features. You have proven experience working on large web or cloud applications in Javascript/Typescript.

As a Senior Javascript Infrastructure Engineer you will:

- Build cutting edge web development products
- Use a modern stack: NodeJS, ReactJS, Jest, Webpack etc.
- Improve your skills and work with top-notch engineers
- Tackle tough problems and find creative ways to solve them
- Push your code to users every day
